THE UNIVERSITY ASSAYER.

The Board of Regents owe the public an explanation, in view of the annexed letter, self-explanatory. It looks very singular that the Board should allow a salary for an Assayer when the University is not in operation, and when there is no apparent necessity for such an expenditure:

Office of the State Board of Examiners, Carson City, Nev., Dec. 1, 1885. To the Honorable Board of Regents, Nevada University. Gentlemen:—I have the honor to return to you herewith for further consideration by your honorable body the bill of Frank E. Fielding for $250 one month's salary as Mining Engineer and Assayer at the State University. This Board begs to ask an explanation of the bill, since it has been reported by the public press that Mr. Fielding has never entered upon the charge of his duties as such Engineer and Assayer. By order of the President, WELLS DUNN, Clerk of the Board.

DEMOCRATIC EXTRAVAGANCE.

Comparative Economy of Republican Administrations.

The New York Tribune's Washington special of December 13th says: The book of estimates throws a flood of light on the meaning of "reform" as interpreted by a Democratic Administration. It also shows how false have been the charges made by Democratic orators concerning the waste and extravagance of Republican Administration. The total increase in the estimates for 1886-87 over the last fiscal year of the Republican Administration is $75,659,708. Deducting the appropriation for the Navy Department for the six months of the last fiscal year, which is included in the appropriation for the current year, the actual increase asked for the next year over the appropriations for the current year is $57,000,000. It may be that all this money is needed to administer the affairs of the Government, but what a comment it furnishes on the Democratic falsehoods in the campaign of 1884.

Capital Seeking Investment.

The New York Post says: Regarding the supply of capital, the situation is unprecedented. There never has been so large an amount of money seeking investment at such low rates and for so long a time as has been experienced in this country for the past year up to the present time.

The State Department is advised that within the last twelve weeks Minister Pendleton, at Berlin, has intervened in the matter of the expulsion of twelve German-Americans. The intervention has been for the purpose of obtaining information for future action. A distinction is made between the term "intervention" and "protest." Minister Pendleton is understood as yet not to have filed a protest in any case.

The Reno Journal of Sunday was taken up wholly with a communication headed, "Congress vindicated, against a foul aspersion." "The Diatribes of W. M. Stewart shown to be a tissue of fallacies and fabrications." "An insult to the integrity and intelligence of the people rebuked." Rather killing for the Honorable W. M. from another aspirant was the dictum of the few in Carson who read the Journal.—Carson Tribune.

If you had had your spectacles on, old man, you would have noticed the signature of a Carsonite to the article.

The Candelaria True Fissure says: The public debt shows an increase for the month of November of $4,487,000. In the good old days of Republican rascality, stealing and corruption in offices, the monthly balance was on the other side of the ledger. Democratic retrenchment and reform comes a little high, but we have bought it, and it is presumed that we will have to pay for it so long as we keep it.

Adolf Dencher, at present Vice President of Switzerland, has been elected President for the year of 1886. He is a Radical.

The Senate has passed a bill giving Mrs. Grant the usual pension of $5,000, and the franking privilege.

THE SILVER QUESTION.

The Latest Scheme Proposed by the Currency Tinkers.

The New York Tribune's Washington special says: Although nearly 500 bills and resolutions have already been introduced into the Senate, only one of them concern silver legislation, and that one is by Senator Mitchell. It provides for the retirement of trade dollars by exchanging them for standard silver dollars. In the House Weaver and others have already presented many petitions for the free coinage of silver, and several bills will be introduced on the subject, probably on the first bill day. Judge Kelley, who investigated the silver question in Europe last Summer, has prepared a measure which provides for a small coinage of silver dollars until "the coinage of both gold and silver as full legal tenders shall be established at a common ratio by the leading commercial nations of Europe, in concert with the United States." The nearest approach to the silver problem, thus far indicated is embodied in a proposition which originated from Representative Scott, of Pennsylvania. His bill authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to create what shall be known as the silver reserve fund. This is to consist entirely of standard silver dollars of 412½ grains each, to be maintained at a minimum limit of $20,000,000. Whenever in any one month the fund shall show a deficiency below that amount the Secretary of the Treasury shall be required to coin during the succeeding month enough silver dollars to supply such deficiency. While this fund remains intact coinage will be unnecessary, but as soon as the fund is encroached upon by the demands of trade or otherwise the Government will come forward to fill the gap. Mr. Scott believes it will save an immense sum lost in the shape of interest on the mass of silver stored in the Treasury. This scheme is favored by a large number of prominent Democrats representing both sides of the question. It does not absolutely discontinue the coinage of silver dollars, but will confine the production within the business demands of the country.

THE CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY.

Its High Rank and Its Rapid Progress in All Departments.

The San Francisco Post says: The Regents of the State University have issued their annual report, and many will be surprised to learn what a vigorous institution the one at Berkeley is. Since the Stanford endowment the first thing that will be asked is the comparative wealth of the two establishments. The State University has productive funds amounting to $1,678,386 55, and the total value of its property is nearly $4,000,000. Very few institutions in the United States can compare with it in financial resources. The income averages about $100,000 a year. The library numbers 26,773 volumes, of which 2,325 were added during the year. Besides, there are enough pamphlets and periodicals to make about 600 volumes more. This is an important library, even in numbers, but its value cannot be judged in that way. It is a collection so choice that it is better than some libraries of twice as many books. In all its branches it has 517 students, ranking tenth in the country. The list of publications by members of the faculty shows that a praiseworthy mental activity prevails among them. All departments are constantly becoming equipped with better apparatus and better resource of every kind.

San Francisco's Surveyor of the Port.

The Washington Post correspondent ascertained at the White House Monday afternoon that Senators Fair and Miller have telegraphed to the President that they will oppose the confirmation of Tamm on account of his notoriously bad record. Senator Stanford has also called at the Executive Mansion and expressed a similar intention. Representative Henley is furious at this turn of affairs, and says he will see Fair upon his arrival and thinks he can persuade him to withdraw his opposition.

The debate on the question of removing the disabilities imposed by the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution is one of those things in prospect. Senator Beck's bill proposes the restoration to citizenship of Jefferson Davis, Robert Toombs, Jubal Early and others, who have not asked for it.

THE ISLE OF ERIN.

Three Distinct Periods of Her History.

The San Francisco Chronicle of Thursday says: The audience which gathered in Metropolitan Hall last night was appreciative, if not large. The occasion was a lecture delivered by Rev. Father Gleason, of Oakland, for the benefit of Saint Anthony Church, Brooklyn. The subject was "England's Treatment of Ireland; or Irishmen's Reasons for Demanding National Independence." The Speaker occupied the close attention of his hearers for an hour and a half. The following is a synopsis of his remarks, which were frequently interrupted by applause. In dealing with this theme, said the lecturer, I shall exaggerate nothing, nor say anything that cannot be substantiated by sober, impartial history of England's treatment of Ireland for the last 700 years. England's treatment of Ireland has been unfair, ungenerous and detrimental to her own interests. It has been cruel, and has no counterpart in the history of any country on the globe. It seems that England's policy was to have destroyed and rooted out the Irish race. If the facts that I will use are true, and history tells them, then any man must acknowledge that Ireland's right to self-government cannot be gainsaid. Allegiance and protection are correlative terms, and one cannot exist without the other. So in considering whether Ireland owes any allegiance to England, we must consider the protection which she has extended to Ireland and the Irishmen. What was that protection? Odious laws, tyrannical treatment and unjust government. If America was justified in 1776 in throwing off the allegiance of Great Britain, then Ireland has a hundred times more right to revolt against England's unnatural tyranny. England's treatment of Ireland may be divided into three periods. The first extends from the time of Henry II to the time of Elizabeth. The second covers the period from the reign of Elizabeth to the third of the Georges. The third period extends from the time of George III to present time.

THE CONQUEST OF ERIN.

In the first period it is said that England had the right to Irish territory, because the Pope gave her the lands. But those who say so forget that neither Popes or Emperors have any power to deprive us of our legitimate hereditary rights. England's acquisition of Ireland was a spoliation. But it is false that Henry II was given Ireland by the Pope, or asked to improve her morals. I will never believe, in the absence of satisfactory documentary evidence, that the Pope gave a murderer, an adulterer, a man who was supposed to be possessed by a demon, as history tells us of Henry, could have been given the power by the Pope to reform Ireland's morals, especially as her morals did not need reformation. The four hundred years of the first period show a cruelty of treatment that will ever cover England with infamy. An Irishman in that time had no right that an Englishman was compelled to respect. He could be murdered and there was no law to indict the English murderer. Was there ever heard of such a thing—laws which shielded with impunity the murderer, the robber and the adulterer? There were laws directed against Irish habits, customs and language. They even went so far as to make it an offense for an Englishman to allow an Irishman's horse to graze on his pasture. In the second period, regarding the atrocities committed during the reign of the Georges, we may say with Walter Savage Landor: When George the Fourth from Earth descended, Praised be the Lord the Georges ended.

During the reign of Elizabeth, the manner in which the soldiers of England laid waste the lands and homes of the Irish people is well known. The consequence was famine, and the whole country was turned into a common sepulcher. Am I not right in saying that England's treatment of Ireland has been bespoken with a tyrannical cruelty not to be encountered in the annals of any civilized nation? The confiscation of Irish lands by the alien English, and the setting aside of time-honored titles in the reign of James I is a matter of common history. At last James conferred favor on the Irish—he died. The blood shed by Cromwell, whose name was a terror to Ireland, throws more light on England's treatment of Ireland. Even now you cannot wish a man a greater evil in Ireland than by saying: "The curse of Cromwell be upon you!" He drove 100,000 of the Irish before him and shipped them to the West Indies as slaves. The same bloodshed and intolerant spirit are shown in all the reigns down to 1745, when a little thought began to be exercised towards the Irish.

THE IRELAND OF TO-DAY.

There are many men who say that Ireland has been fairly dealt with by England for the past 100 years. They say that Ireland has the same Constitution. But how many times has that Constitution been suspended in the case of Ireland? In the same way the laws of Ireland are not the same as in England. Theoretically they may be, but not practically. The land laws of Ireland may be the same in the letter as in England, but in the application they are as far apart as the two poles. Nine tenths of the people of Ireland have not an acre of land of their own. What is the position of Ireland to-day? They demand their own legislation. Every people is supposed to govern itself. Why should the Irish be excepted? This is a puzzle no man but an Englishman can solve. If you bear in mind that Ireland is only one-third the size of California, how can we wonder that there is any wealth in Ireland. What she wants is independence. Either the Irish will be disfranchised or Ireland will achieve her independence. Irishmen are reasonable; they are not vindictive or revengeful, but simply desire that they shall not be trampled on any longer. When this shall be accomplished, and no one is contributing more than Charles Stewart Parnell, then Ireland will enjoy a taste of that prosperity which has been forbidden her for the last 700 years.

THEODORE WINTERS.

The Good He Has Done for the Turf of the Pacific Coast.

Joe. Cairn Simpson, editor of the San Francisco Breeder and Sportsman, in the last issue of his paper pays the following tribute to Theodore Winters:

We intended to place before our readers a sketch of the members of the "old Board" of Trustees of the Pacific Coast Blood Horse Association, but owing to circumstances which have taken place lately, will curtail the description. It would require a long communication, however, to give a full account of the good which Theodore Winters has done for the turf of the Pacific Coast. We are within bounds to say that his efforts have been the predominating influence, which has rescued racing from the hands which had brought it into disrepute; and ever since his connection with racing affairs, there has been an earnest endeavor to bring about desirable results. We have differed in opinion with him, and that difference has been mainly regarding one point of the general subject. There have been heated discussions in which "hot words" on both sides have been spoken, and we are extremely gratified to state that, so far as we are aware, there has been no cessation of friendly feeling. At least we can state with all sincerity, that our feelings have never changed. We respect the man, we admire his many good qualities; there is nothing within the bounds of self-respect that would not be cheerfully done to meet his wishes. Beyond that we cannot go even to serve a friend as tried and true as Theodore Winters has been to us, and we feel alike positive that should we have surrendered honest convictions, his innate love of a straightforward, manly course would have lowered us in his esteem. In one respect there may be similarity. There may be an over-proneness to adhere to preconceived opinions, to "stick," when, perhaps, pertinacity degenerates into obstinacy, and which we do not charge Mr. Winters with; but oftentimes retrospection brings self-accusation, and then comes the thought that even obstinacy is better than vacillating imbecility. It is foreign to our purpose to enter into such a disquisition at present, and in lieu thereof give an exceedingly brief sketch of Mr. Winters' connection with the turf in California, and equally as briefly rehearse what he has done in late years for the advancement of the "royal sport." Mr. Winters inherited a love for the blood horse. Emigrating from Northwestern Illinois—a section where thoroughbreds were fostered, at one time there being three racetracks in the vicinity of Galena, and quarter-paths in every neighborhood—he came to California with the liking for that kind of recreation firmly fixed in his nature. Although prominent in racing circles before, his most noted purchase was that of Norfolk in 1864. It was the first instance in America that a three-year-old colt had brought $15,000, and the news was heralded all over the country, saying that portion which was in tumultuous strife. As Norfolk ran in the East without losing a heat, ran in California with uniform victory, his fame shone with more brilliancy. When relegated to the stud there were very few mares at all suitable to breed race-horses from. It was not long until Mr. Winters secured Margretta, by Lexington, Hennie Farrow, by Imp. Shamrock, Ballerina, by Imp. Bakrownie; and from that time on there has been a succession of famous horses from Rancho del Arroyo, and with a grand collection of youngsters on the more favorably situated Rancho del Rio. Mollie McCarty, Balston, Flood, Connor, Duke, Duchess, King and Prince of Norfolk, Alta, Ed. Corrigan, Estill, Bonanza and many others. The best evidence, however, of the success Mr. Winters has had in breeding thoroughbreds is that of his annual sales of yearlings. The practice was instituted last year, and the aggregate of that sale was $19,000 there being some older colts offered. This year there were not so many animals, and $11,000 was the figure, the top-notch being the sister to Duchess of Norfolk, which brought $2,525, and several others close to $2,000. Having retained a few fillies to put in the stud when of proper age these were trained and ran this season.

Few will deny that the organization of the Pacific Coast Blood Horse Association gave an impetus to breeding and racing on this Coast, which has been indirectly the means of multiplying thoroughbreds to a wonderful degree. The organization was effected over seven years ago, and Mr. Winters declining the Presidency, E. J. Baldwin was elected. Mr. Baldwin served two years and then Mr. Winters occupied the chair three years, when J. V. Coleman was elected. He served one full term and to September of this year; his resignation made an interregnum, which should have been filled by the Vice President. Up to this time Mr. Winters gave to the business of the Association every attention. On receipt of a telegram he would leave his home in Washoe, Nevada, to attend the meetings, and time to a wealthy man means more than money. But money was also freely given. To one purse, $1,000, to another, $500, and so on. His purse was always ready to respond to drafts, and the more onerous drafts on his time honored as well. His example in other respects is well worthy of being followed, and the query is pertinent that seeks for information as to the cause of his defeat at the annual election. As an analogue we will offer a political reply. A man that is in every way well fitted to fill a place is defeated from the "platform," being contrary to the wishes of a majority of the voters, and there is scarcely a doubt that had other things been satisfactory Mr. Winters would have received a welcome support, and without the antagonism which others raised.

Probable Candidates.

The Free Lance says: The Twelfth Legislature proposed an amendment to the Constitution abolishing the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction. Notwithstanding the possibility of its abolishment by the people within two years after January first, 1887, there doubtless will be at the coming election numerous candidates for the office. On the Republican ticket are mentioned the names of Orvis Ring, of Washoe, H. H. Howe, of Ormsby, T. N. Stone, of Elko, W. C. Dovey, of Lyon, and T. P. McDonald, of Storey. On the Democratic ticket are mentioned. A. E. Kaye, of Eureka, A. H. Willis, of Storey, J. E. Bray, of Humboldt, and W. W. Booher, of Esmeralda. Although the office has been, as Supt. D. R. Sessions said, "emasculated," and although since his term expired the salary of the office has been reduced from $2,800 per annum to $1,900 per annum, yet no doubt there will be in the field for the empty honor several very competent and worthy educators.

Ex-Officio E Pluribus Unum.

The Free Lance says: Although Lieutenant-Governor C. E. Laughlin has been deprived of his office of State Librarian he still has more positions and titles than any other person in the State. He is still Lieutenant-Governor and ex-officio Adjutant General, ex-officio President of the Senate, ex-officio a member of the Board for the care of the Indigent Insane, ex-officio President of the Board of Capitol Commissioners, and during the absence of the Governor from the State is Acting Governor, and as such—as the laws are now construed—is ex-officio President of the Board of Examiners, ex-officio President of the Board of State Prison Commissioners and ex-officio President of the Board of Pardons.

Booming Aurora Mining District.

From Governor Bissell, from H. M. Yerington and from Judge Sewell it is learned that the sale of the group of 42 mines to the English syndicate is a settled fact. $2,500,000 is already on deposit in the bank as a working capital, the same to be used in developing the property. It is asserted by those in authority that work will be commenced on the mines and mills, to be erected within a few days. Within the past three months a Free Lance reporter has prospected every mining hole and drift in the camp, and upon the information thus gained predicts that in the near future Aurora will be the largest bullion producing district and the liveliest camp in the State of Nevada.

State Land Office.

During the past week applications for lands aggregating 2720 acres, 240 at $2 50, and 2480 at $1 25 per acre, were filed by the State Land Register. During the same period in 1883, 9,400 acres at $1 25, and 80 acres at $2 50 were applied for. This decrease is due to Regents' order of last September, which results disastrously to our school fund, and multiplies labor in the Land Department, due to correspondence and filing extra affidavits.
